

Homecoming Week at St. Norbert College

By: Ella Vandenberg

Homecoming week proved to be a very eventful time on the St. Norbert campus. There were an abundance of events going on around campus, two of the most popular being the Cannonball Contest and the Homecoming football game. Both of these events drew in a large crowd of students, staff and alumni.

The Cannonball Contest is an annual Homecoming Week event in which 15 members of the student/staff body try to beat their opponents and receive the highest score for their cannonball. The participants are judged on a variety of factors and given scores from a judging panel based on their performance. Many of the participants this year were representing a club or sports team. This helped draw a large crowd all there to support their group members.

The Homecoming football game was also a very popular event. The festivities kicked off early with many groups hosting tailgates outside of Schneider Stadium. The campus was able to welcome back many alumni. Since it doubled as family weekend the campus was also full of many student families visiting for the events. The tailgate was followed by the football game.

The football team was able to pull out a landslide victory beating Concordia University Chicago 62-0. Attendees also got to listen to the pep band perform throughout the event. The new SNC pep band can be seen performing at various campus sporting events throughout the year. The addition proved to be very successful at the game.

Homecoming week gave SNC students many opportunities to get involved and enjoy activities on campus. Students got to experience both old and new events throughout the week. Many also got to see alumni, family, and friends during the celebrations. It was an overall successful and engaging week for SNC students.
