

Finals Week

By: Katherine Ikaunieks

Time is running out before finals

My classes are almost over and I find myself bound

I want to alleviate the stress and return to my vinyls

All these things to do, my grade is at stake

I want to be on Winter Break

All this work to be done, I find myself drowned

All these exams and projects that I must partake

As we reach December stress will be all around

Hoping to pass classes that I don't want to retake

After it's done, I pack and go eastbound

To start my break and let my worries escape
